Pictures. Directed by Mike Mitchell, it is a sequel to The Lego Movie (2014), the fourth installment overall in the franchise following the releases of The Lego Batman Movie and Will Ferrell in the franchise produced and distributed by Warner Bros. Pictures. The film stars Chris Pratt, Elizabeth Banks, Will Arnett, Charlie Day, Alison Brie, Nick Offerman, and Will Ferrell reprising their roles from the previous film, while new cast members include Stephanie Beatriz, Tiffany Haddish, and Denmark, the film takes place five years after the events of Taco Tuesday and follows Emmet Brickowski (Pratt), Lucy (Banks) and their friends, who take into the Systar System to test their skills and creativity, while Emmet's dealing with a coming cataclysm known as "Armamageddon". Plans for a sequel began in 2014 and was announced to be in the works, four days before the release of the first film. It was announced that the film will be by Chris McKay while Phil Lord and Christopher Miller remained as writers and producers. The film since underwent many changes, such as rewrites, directors, and release dates, with Mike Mitchell was later announced as the new director. Production for the film began in October 2017, with majority of the cast members returning to voice the characters in mid-2018. Like all its previous instalments in the franchise, the animation was provided by Animal Logic. The Lego Movie 2: The Second Part premiered in Los Angeles on February 8, 2019 in RealD 3D, IMAX, IMAX 3D, 4DX and Dolby Cinema formats. It received generally positive reviews from critics, who commended for its humor, animation, premise, soundtrack, and voice acting, although some said it was not as "fresh" as the first film.[6] Despite grossing $192.5 million worldwide against a budget of $99 million, the film became the franchise's second box office disappointment after The Lego Ninjago Movie,[7][8][9][10] which led Warner Bros. to sell the rights of The Lego Movie franchise to Universal Pictures, which was later set for a five-year deal. Plot Shortly after the invasion led by Lord Business in which Emmet destroys the Kragle using the Piece of Resistance, Duplo aliens a token of friendship, but one eats it and demands more. Lucy and the Master Builders believe this to be an attack and retaliate, and the ensuing battle ravages Bricksburg. Five years later, the teenaged Finn has rebuilt Bricksburg as "Apocalypseburg". Within the Lego universe, they have been ravaged by repeated Duplo attacks, and several of their friends have gone missing searching for the Duplo home planet. Emmet remains upbeat in stark contrast to Lucy and his friends, though he has visions of an impending "armamageddon". A mini-doll called General Sweet Mayhem arrives, kidnaps all of Emmet's friends, and takes them to the shape-shifting empress of the "Syster", Queen Watevra Wa'Nabi. Emmet tries to convince the Master Builders to help him save Lucy and the rest of his friends, but they refuse to help, believing that he isn't tough enough to go through the "Stairgate". Meanwhile, Wa'Nabi can seemingly brainwash Emmet's friends into accepting the joy of her world, and convinces Batman to marry her as a way to unite the Lego and Duplo worlds, with only Lucy remaining skeptical of Wa'Nabi's plans. The ship is heavily damaged and nearly collides with an asteroid field, but is saved in time by rugged adventurer Rex Dangervest. After hearing Emmet's story, Rex offers to help and takes them to the Systar System, and en route, Emmet tries to emulate some of Rex's mannerisms. When they arrive, they quickly reunite with Lucy and learn of the marriage plans, which Rex insists must be a front to bring on "armamageddon". As the wedding starts, Emmet, Rex, and Lucy split up to sabotage the event. Mayhem, who insists the wedding is intended to prevent "armamageddon", intercepts Lucy instead. At the ceremony, Wa'Nabi reveals her true form: the heart that Emmet tried to give the Duplo invaders. Realizing that Bianca had taken his Lego figures, has smashed her own creations. Emmet realizes his mistake, but is seized by Rex, who reveals he is a version of himself from the future. Rex had collided with the asteroids, and ended up under the dryer, forgotten by Finn. To ensure his future existence, he changed his appearance and created a time-travel machine to return to help Emmet but make sure "armamageddon" came to pass. When Emmet refuses to abandon his friends, Rex knocks him under the same dryer, ensuring that he would continue to exist. In the real world, Finn and Bianca's mother is fed up with the kids' bickering, and as punishment, orders them to put the Lego toys into the storage bin; Lucy recognizes this as Emmet's "armamageddon" (as in "our mama gets in"). Both the Lego and Duplo figures are put into the "Bin of Storajj" and fear they will not escape. Meanwhile, Finn finds the pieces of Wa'Nabi's form in one of the storage bins, which is revealed to be a heart that Finn gave to Bianca five years earlier, telling her it can be "whatever you want it to be". Finn and Bianca reconcile and start playing together. In the Lego universe, this act inspires Lucy and the others to escape the Bin and help rebuild Wa'Nabi's world. Lucy helps to save Emmet from Rex and destroy his time machine. Emmet comes to accept he will never be as skilled as Rex, and with this self-realization, Rex fades from existence, correcting a time paradox. Finn and Bianca's mother sees them playing together, and happily watches them. The Lego universe is recreated as a mish-mash of Apocalypseburg and the System, renamed "Syspocalypstar". When Emmet's home is rebuilt, the film ends with Lucy making Emmet a gift of the original album of "Everything Is Awesome", revealinc that she co-originated the song, causing Emmet to gasp in shock. Cast Chris Pratt, Elizabeth Banks and Stephanie Beatriz promoting the film at the 2018 San Diego Comic-Con. Main article: List of The Lego Movie characters Chris Pratt as: Emmet Brickowski, an everyman, construction worker, and a Master Builder from Bricksburg.[11] Rex Dangervest, a self-proclaimed "galaxy-defender, archaeologist, cowboy, and raptor trainer." Additionally, the characters of Bad Cop / Good Cop (now known as Scribble Cop) and Vitruvius' ghost return, but they have only brief lines of dialogue and are voiced by uncredited actors in place of Liam Neeson and Morgan Freeman. [26] Production Development Phil Lord and Christopher Miller, who wrote and directed the first film, returned as writers and producers of the film. On February 3, 2014, Jared Stern was hired to write the sequel, along with Michelle Morgan. [27] On March 12, 2014, Deadline reported that animation co-director Chris McKay would direct the sequel with Phil Lord and Christopher Miller as producers. [28] On April 10, 2014, it was reported that McKay wanted to have more women in the sequel than men.[29] On July 28, 2014, it was reported that Chris Pratt wanted to return to reprise his role as Batman, but hadn't decided.[30] In October 2014, Warner Bros. scheduled The Lego Batman Movie for 2017, and The Lego Movie 2 for May 25, 2018.[31][32] On October 30, it was announced that Lord and Miller had signed on to write The Lego Movie 2.[33] On October 30, it was announced that Australia-based animation studio Animal Logic was in talks to produce the next three Lego films (though the deal was not finalized at the time) and the New South Wales government would make financial contributions to all the films.[34] On November 12, during an interview with BBC News, Lord and Miller revealed that there would be more female characters featured in the film.[35] On February 24, 2015, the sequel and Rob Schrab was announced as the film's director, replacing McKay as director as he was scheduled to direct The Lego Batman Movie instead.[36] By November 2015, Miller announced that the first draft of the script was completed.[37] Subsequent rewrites were provided by Raphael Bob-Waksberg,[38] Dominic Russo[39] and Matthew Fogel.[40] By February 2017, Schrab had been replaced by Mike Mitchell, reportedly due to "creative differences".[41] Production started in Canada on October 2, 2017.[42][43] In an interview with Collider for the press day for The Lego Ninjago Movie, producer Dan Lin confirmed that Lord & Miller were rewriting the script during production. He also said that the sequel was going to include more songs due to the success of competing Disney musical films like Frozen and Moana.[44] The production of the film took advantage of Animal Logic's latest update to its trace renderer, Glimpse, to improve on-screen detail and depth-of-field.[45] Miller stated that he will dedicate the film took advantage of Animal Logic's latest update to its trace renderer, Glimpse, to improve on-screen detail and depth-of-field.[45] Miller stated that he will dedicate the film took advantage of Animal Logic's latest update to its trace renderer, Glimpse, to improve on-screen detail and depth-of-field.[45] Miller stated that he will dedicate the film took advantage of Animal Logic's latest update to its trace renderer, Glimpse, to improve on-screen detail and depth-of-field.[45] Miller stated that he will dedicate the film took advantage of Animal Logic's latest update to its trace renderer, Glimpse, to improve on-screen detail and depth-of-field.[45] Miller stated that he will dedicate the film took advantage of Animal Logic's latest update to its trace renderer, Glimpse, to improve on-screen detail and depth-of-field.[45] Miller stated that he will dedicate the film took advantage of Animal Logic's latest update to its trace renderer, Glimpse, to improve on-screen detail and depth-of-field.[45] Miller stated that he will dedicate the film took advantage of Animal Logic's latest update to its trace renderer, Glimpse, to improve on-screen detail and depth-of-field.[45] Miller stated that he will dedicate the film took advantage of Animal Logic's latest update to its trace renderer, Glimpse, to improve on-screen detail and depth-of-field.[45] Miller stated that he will dedicate the film took advantage of Animal Logic's latest update to its trace renderer, Glimpse, to improve on-screen detail and depth-of-field.[45] Miller stated that he will dedicate the film took advantage of Animal Logic's latest update to its trace renderer, Glimpse, to improve on-screen detail advantage of Animal Logic's latest update to its trace render 2018, two months before the film's release.[46] Writing The Lego Movie 2's narrative begins after the events of the first film, just as Finn's toddler sister Bianca taken more of the Lego sets to incorporate into her own creations. The animation team recognized that girls would likely not only use Lego bricks but also incorporate other materials, such as fabrics and paper, creating a challenge for their stop-motion animation process. They explored multiple design styles for each playset that is within Bianca's room, the "Systar System", and developed new animation approaches for some of these styles, including using fewer frames as in inbetweening.[16] They also incorporated the Lego mini-figurines, the Lego Friends' mini-dolls do not have the same articulation, for example, having no separate leg movement or wrists that rotate. The production team, working with Lego, did not want to create walking and movement patterns that did not match the film This also created a challenge for at least one song and dance number; production brought in a choreographing team to help plan out the dance taking into account for the mini-figures. For Queen Watevra Wa-Nabi, the production team decided to simply assign a pile of random Lego bricks for her, but required that each of the forms that she could shape-shift into used only those bricks from that pile.[16] According to Lord and Miller, each Lego Movie 2, both Finn and Bianca's imaginations drive certain scenes, and the creators opted to leave the film's vague parts if the scene was based on Finn's version, or some combination.[17] Among the mini-figures that would be unexpected within the film, with Ginsburg as one of their ideas. They received Ginsburg's blessing for this appearance, though she did not perform any voice work for this role. Subsequently, the Ginsburg's blessing for this had been cast in the film to voice a new lead character, while returning actors would be Pratt as Emmet, Elizabeth Banks as Wyldstyle, Arnett as Batman, Channing Tatum as Superman, and Jonah Hill as Green Lantern.[11] Stephanie Beatriz and Arturo Castro were announced to be part of the film on June 4, 2018.[13] Castro was replaced by Richard Ayoade in the final film. During San Diego Comic Con 2018, it was announced that Pratt would also voice a new character in addition to Emmet, Rex Dangervest, who is based after Pratt himself.[12] In November 2018, It was revealed that Jason Momoa would reprise his role as Aguaman from the DC Extended Universe. Gal Gadot was to also reprise her role as Wonder Woman from the DC Extended Universe, replacing Cobie Smulders from the previous film,[49] but Smulders from the previous film,[40] bu ultimately cut. It was revealed by Mitchell that Radcliffe's cameo was deleted due to not wanting to risk anything that would upset the Harry Potter fandom. The character was replaced by Larry Poppins (another look-alike character based on a British media icon).[50] Music Main article: The Lego Movie 2: The Second Part (soundtrack) Following the attempt to create an earworm with the first film's "Everything Is Awesome", the producers of the film created a similar song for the sequel, titled "Catchy Song", which principally features as its only lyric the repeated phrase "This song's gonna get stuck inside your head". The song was written by Ion Lajoie, and recorded by Dillon Francis, featuring T Pain and Alaya High (the latter under her stage name That Girl Lay Lay). According to Lajoie, he found that "Everything is Awesome" was "annoying' up to 11!".[51] Mark Mothersbaugh, who composed the first film's soundtrack, as well as the score for The Lego Ninjago Movie, returned to compose the score for the sequel.[52] Both the soundtrack and score albums were released by WaterTower Music on February 7, 2019, a day before the film's release. Marketing campaign for The Lego Movie 2: The Second Part cost $100 million. Promotional partners included Chevrolet, Chiquita, McDonald's, Discover Card, and Turkish Airlines.[53] Like The Lego Movie, Lego released a number of building toy sets based on scenes from The Lego Movie 2.[54][55][56] Warner Bros. released a Christmas-styled short film, Emmet's Holiday Party, in December 2018.[57] The Lego Movie 2 Videogame was released in February 2019 on multiple platforms.[58] The Lego Movie 2: The Second Part premiered on February 2, 2019, at the Regency Village Theatre in Los Angeles.[59] It was originally scheduled for general release in the United States on May 26, 2017.[60] but the film was released one day earlier in Denmark.[63] Warner Bros. Home Entertainment released The Lego Movie 2: The Second Part for digital download on April 16, 2019, and on DVD and 4K Ultra HD/Blu-ray combo formats on May 7. Physical copies contain behind-the-scenes featurettes, audio commentary, deleted scenes, and the short Emmet's Holiday Party.[64] Reception Box office The Lego Movie 2: The Second Part grossed $105.8 million in the United States and Canada and $86.5 million in other territories, for a worldwide total of $192.5 million.[5] The Lego Movie 2 was released with What Men Want, Cold Pursuit, and The Prodigy on February 8, 2019.[65] It earned $8.5 million on its first day, including $1.5 million from Thursday night previews. The film debuted earning $34.1 million from 4,303 theaters, but its opening to franchise fatigue due to the release of two spin-offs prior to The Lego Movie 2, as well as Warner Bros. promoting the film using similar marketing tactics from the first film, leading audiences to assume the sequel as derivative and indistinguishable from its predecessor.[66][67] Critical response On the review aggregator website Rotten Tomatoes, 84% of 300 critics' reviews are positive, with an average rating of 7/10. The website's critical consensus reads, "While it isn't quite as much fun as its predecessor, The LEGO Movie 2: The Second Part fits neatly into an animated all-ages franchise with heart and humor to spare".[68] On Metacritic, the film has a weighted average score of 65 out of 100, based on 52 critics, indicating "generally favorable reviews".[69] Audiences polled by CinemaScore gave the film an average grade of "A-" on an A+ to F scale (lower than The Lego Movie's "A"), and PostTrak rated it 4 out of 5 stars; social media monitor RelishMix noted their online responses were "great".[66] Jesse Hassenger of The A.V. Club called the film "lovable", giving it a grade of B and writing "Like Brad Bird's recent Incredibles 2, it follows up a dazzling animated original (all the more dazzling for earning that designation despite being based on a toy line) with some big ideas that don't cohere with the same streamlined magic as its predecessor."[70] Yolanda Machado of TheWrap commended the screenplay and directing and wrote that the film "expands on the original's premise, adding new worlds and characters to the growing LEGO universe, while also crafting a story that is timely, inventive, hilarious and perfect for all ages."[71] Chris Nashawaty of Entertainment Weekly says that while it was better than most other films it didn't recapture the surprise of the first film, saying "Everything is still awesome. Just a little bit less so."[72] For The Hollywood Reporter, Michael Rechtshaffen wrote that the film brought "little that's fresh or funny to the interlocking brick table despite boasting a script penned by originators Phil Lord and Christopher Miller."[2] Accolades The Lego Movie 2: The Second Part earned several nominations for Best Animated/Family Film from the Golden Tomato Awards,[73] the Golden Trailer Awards, [74] the Movie guide Awards (won), [75] the Nickelodeon Kids' Choice Award for Favorite Male Voice from an Animated Movie and the People's Choice Award for Best Animated Movie Star of 2019. [76] [77] Haddish's performance received the Kids' Choice Award for Favorite Female Voice from an Animated Movie nomination.[76] At the 3rd Hollywood Critics Association Film Awards, its "Catchy Song" was nominated for Best Original Song.[78][79] The film was nominated for Best Original Song.[78][79] The Awards.[80][81] Future Following The Lego Movie 2's disappointing box office returns, Warner Bros. allowed their film rights with Lego to expire. Lego entered negotiations with Universal Pictures for a new first-look deal. Dan Lin was expected to remain as producer through his company Rideback.[82] In April 2020, the deal with Universal was set for a five-year film deal.[83] Notes ^ As depicted at the ending of The Lego Movie (2014).
